Table of Contents

CHAPTER 1. INTRODUCTION
§ 1:1 Brief overview
§ 1:3 The personal nature of the privacy action
§ 1:4 Privacy rights of business and associational entities

CHAPTER 2. INTRUSION UPON SECLUSION
§ 2:1 Intrusion upon seclusion—General introduction
§ 2:2 Intent and malice
§ 2:3 Intrusion upon seclusion v. intentional infliction of emotional distress—A comparison
§ 2:4 Publication
§ 2:5 Actionable physical or locational intrusions
§ 2:6 Actionable highly offensive non-trespassory intrusions
§ 2:7 The “public”-“private” dichotomy and the concept of a “reasonable expectation of privacy”
§ 2:8 The requirement of an actual intrusion or invasion
§ 2:9 Liability for acts of third parties—Aiding and abetting, etc
§ 2:10 Damage remedies for actionable intrusions
§ 2:11 Injunctive relief
§ 2:12 Consent or waiver
§ 2:13 Qualified privilege
§ 2:14 Absolute privilege—Judicial proceedings
§ 2:15 Judically authorized disclosures or compelled actions or disclosures and legislatively authorized investigations [Retitled]
§ 2:16 Absolute and qualified privileges of executive officers of federal and state government
§ 2:17 Public records
§ 2:18 The rights and responsibilities of media defendants
§ 2:18.10 The rights and responsibilities of media defendants—The Supreme Court and picketing of funerals: Implications for privacy [New]
§ 2:18.20 The British “hacking” scandal, the Leveson inquiry and report, and a post-mortem [New]
§ 2:19 Wiretapping, electronic surveillance, peeping toms, eavesdropping and mail interception
§ 2:20 Obtaining, disclosure and discussion of confidential medical information; issues of genetic privacy
§ 2:21 Creditors and debt collection agencies
§ 2:22 Professional investigators and surveillance and stalking
§ 2:23 Job-related or other racial and sexual harassment (Retitled)
§ 2:24 Intrusions upon prisoners’ and psychiatric inmates’ privacy
§ 2:26 Initiation of and participation in judicial proceedings
§ 2:29 Landlord-tenant disputes
§ 2:30 Employer-employee relationships and substance abuse testing and analysis (Retitled)
§ 2:31 Intrusion upon seclusion and the Communications Decency Act (New)

CHAPTER 3. PUBLIC DISCLOSURE OF PRIVATE FACTS
§ 3:1 Truth and malice
§ 3:2 Public disclosure of private facts v. intentional infliction of emotional distress—A comparison
§ 3:3 The publicity requirement
§ 3:4 The identification requirement
§ 3:5 The private facts requirement
§ 3:6 The highly offensive requirement
§ 3:7 The fault requirement in public disclosure cases
§ 3:8 Remedies
§ 3:9 Consent or waiver
§ 3:10 Qualified or conditional privileges
§ 3:11 Publications by executive and legislative officers of government
§ 3:12 Absolute privilege for legally compelled disclosures
§ 3:13 Absolute privilege for judicial proceedings
§ 3:14 Church disciplinary proceedings
§ 3:15 Public records
§ 3:16 Public personages—Public officials and employees, candidates for public office, and other public figures
§ 3:17 The public interest—Newsworthiness limitation
§ 3:18 Newsworthiness and the passage of time
§ 3:19 Cox Broadcasting Corp. v. Cohn and its progeny
§ 3:20 Intrusion upon seclusion and the Communications Decency Act (New)
Table of Contents

CHAPTER 4. FALSE LIGHT IN THE PUBLIC EYE
§ 4:1 False light—An introduction
§ 4:2 False light—A comparison with the three other subgroupings of privacy
§ 4:3 The requirement of publicity
§ 4:4 The identification requirement
§ 4:5 The substantial falsity and highly offensive requirement—General rules
§ 4:6 Remedies—Damages
§ 4:7 False light and the common law and statutory requirements of defamation for proof of special damages
§ 4:8 Waiver or consent
§ 4:9 Qualified privilege
§ 4:10 Absolute privilege—Judicial proceedings
§ 4:10.1 Absolute privilege—Legislative proceedings [New]
§ 4:11 Executive officials
§ 4:12 False light and the fair report privilege
§ 4:13 Applicable first amendment standards
§ 4:13.1 Internet publication [New]

CHAPTER 5. BREACHES OF FIDUCIARY DUTIES AND DUTIES OF CONFIDENTIALITY
§ 5:1 Introduction
§ 5:2 Liability of physicians and psychotherapists for breaches of confidentiality
§ 5:3 Banking and lending institutions

CHAPTER 6. MISAPPROPRIATION
§ 6:1 The appropriation-publicity tort—In general
§ 6:2 Cases involving appropriation of name, picture or portrait to advertise a product, promote a business or otherwise financially benefit the defendant
§ 6:3 Non-commercial appropriations
§ 6:4 Appropriation of identity—Definitional coverage
§ 6:5 Identification
§ 6:6 Consent, waiver and abandonment
§ 6:6.1 Legislative authorization [New]
§ 6:7 Descendibility and inheritability of the right of publicity
§ 6:8 The incidental use exception
§ 6:9 The newsworthiness-public interest limitation
§ 6:10 Absence of commercial appropriation

© 2016 Thomson Reuters, 7/2016
§ 6:11 The “ad in disguise” exception to newsworthiness
§ 6:12 Forfeiture by falsification or fictionalization
§ 6:13 First amendment limitations
§ 6:14 Damages
§ 6:14.10 The communications decency act and appropriation
[New]
§ 6:15 Injunctive relief
§ 6:16 Appropriation-right of publicity claims under the “Intellectual Property” exception to the Communications Decency Act [New]

APPENDICES

APPENDIX Statutory Appendix
Table of Laws and Rules
Table of Cases
Index