Preface to Revision

We take up this treatise as its third generation of authors, after the original work of Arden and Darren Rathkopf, and significant revisions done over a 30-year period by Professor Edward H. Ziegler, Jr. We aim to build on our predecessors’ trailblazing efforts, first by making revisions within the framework we inherited in 2014, and in time reorganizing and streamlining the treatise to maximize its usability for readers.

We are indebted to Professor Ziegler for passing the baton to us, and for so generously supporting our work. We are also grateful to Robinson & Cole LLP and the University of Connecticut School of Law for their institutional support, as well as all of our research assistants who have made this book possible.
